PROPOSAL

THE 1ST INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON HEALTH, INNOVATION, AND TECHNOLOGY (ICOHIT)

PRESENTED BY:
FACULTY OF HEALTH SCIENCES
UNIVERSITAS MUHAMMADIYAH LAMONGAN

A. Introduction

The 1st International of International Conference on Health Innovation and Technology (ICoHIT) under the theme "Achieving Sustainable Development Goals through Health, Innovation, and Technology: A Challenge and Opportunity" promises to be a pivotal gathering of global minds dedicated to addressing the pressing issues at the intersection of health, innovation, technology, and sustainable development. Against the backdrop of a rapidly changing world marked by social, economic, and environmental challenges, this conference aims to explore how advancements in health, innovation, and technology can be harnessed to accelerate progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

B. Background

The Sustainable Development Goals, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provide a comprehensive framework for addressing global challenges and building a more sustainable future by 2030. However, achieving these ambitious goals requires concerted efforts across multiple sectors, with health playing a central role. Health is both a fundamental human right and a prerequisite for sustainable development, as healthy populations are better equipped to contribute to economic growth, social cohesion, and environmental stewardship.

Furthermore, innovation and technology have emerged as powerful drivers of progress, offering new solutions to age-old problems and unlocking opportunities for sustainable development. From precision medicine and digital health to renewable energy and climate-smart agriculture, technological innovations have the potential to revolutionize how we approach global challenges and create pathways to a more sustainable future.
